Item 8.01. Other Events.

REX American Resources Corporation (“the Company”) announced today that it has idled its One Earth Energy ethanol plant. This action reflects current market conditions primarily brought on by the slowdown in ethanol demand due to the nationwide spread and impact of COVID-19 and the related efforts to contain the virus, and lower ethanol pricing. It has now idled both of its consolidated ethanol plants as the Company previously idled its NuGen Energy ethanol plant. The Company plans to reopen the plants when management deems market conditions have improved to satisfactory conditions.

About REX American Resources Corporation
